For this project i am proposing $2200. I am looking for a designer who has great imagination and is creative. It would be nice if the designer is a gamer and understands little bit about Esports would be preferred. This is not a job to redesign the entire website and is only for approx 35 pages. I would like to see interactive designs and incorporate visual graphic affects into your design where it will be suitable to give a video game like feeling for example (when user profile has level up). Please use best coding practice coding in html, css and js and keep in mind for fast loading pages when designing the UI pages and makes sure all pages are responsive across all platforms, pixel perfect, user friendly and modern. You will provide two design concepts per page to choose from and allow several revisions on the chosen design. To avoid wasting valuable time, the chosen designer will be given a test to design one of the 35 pages to see if the ideas and design is inline with my expectations if the designer pass then the rest of 34 pages will be given to the designer to finish. We can discuss the the fees for that single design test when you are chosen. There will be 3 milestones (milestone 1: design single UI page for test, Milestone 2: complete 17 UI pages design, milestone 3: complete 17 Ui pages, Milestone 4: final payment will be held until designs goes live.) You will be require to hand over the UI pages after the three miles are completed so my developer can start the integration, you will be expected to provide support to fix design flaws, missing details. When the integration of the UI pages is completed and live, I will release the final payment which will be approx 15-20% cost of the over all project to ensure you will be responsive to me or my developers to fix design issues in a timely manner during the development. You further will provide 60 days support after the website site goes live to fix any design flaws or missing details that was not detected. I will provide the domain URL and design document to the select contractors that i will be interviewing.
